

THE SPIRITUAL SOUL OF LAOS

LUANG PRABANG

ROSEWOOD

The spiritual soul of Laos. An immersion in the natural splendor of the UNESCO-protected Nahm Dong Valley. Welcome to Rosewood Luang Prabang.

Inspired by the First French Ambassador's home in Luang Prabang that welcomed intrepid adventurers, now a time capsule of Laotian history, Bill Bensley reimagined a forgotten 19th-century hill station as a serene sanctuary, set around a waterfall flowing between the banks of the Nam Dong River. A place where suites honor pioneers and artists who visited Laos— Ernest Hébrard, Governor Auguste Pavie and Alix Aymé.

Step into a region shaped by centuries of devotion, where the chiming of temple bells punctuates the air. Here, uncover the magic of Luang Prabang alongside a resident former monk who guides you through sacred Buddhist temples and moments of meditation.

While delighting in rituals of the past, every stay nurtures our community in the present. Partnerships with local producers enrich each dish with sustainable ingredients, support regenerative food practices and village livelihoods. Visits to MandaLao elephant sanctuary help ensure the continued protection of its majestic giants.

Become part of the collective spirit of Laos at Rosewood Luang Prabang.

WELLNESS

At Rosewood Luang Prabang, wellness unfolds in the serenity of the jungle, where ancient Lao healing traditions and natural rhythms guide every experience. Guests are invited to disconnect from the outside world and reconnect with themselves through holistic spa therapies, mindful movement, and immersive rituals rooted in local wisdom. This journey of restoration takes place in tented villas, each perched on the banks of a gently flowing river, where the natural soundtrack of the forest becomes an integral part of the healing process. The spa's philosophy is deeply influenced by the wisdom of traditional healers and the surrounding landscape, drawing from a rich apothecary of locally sourced botanicals, fresh herbs, roots, and flowers. Treatments are thoughtfully designed to reflect authentic Lao healing practices, honoring ancient remedies that have been passed down through generations. Guests can experience this heritage firsthand through therapies such as the traditional Lao herbal poultice massage, where heated compresses are used to release deep-seated tension, or through cleansing rituals that utilize the purifying properties of the forest. By harmonizing these time-honored techniques with the tranquil energy of its riverside setting, the spa creates a profound sanctuary for renewal.
