DANIEL SIMON

MANAGING DIRECTOR, ROSEWOOD PHNOM PENH

Daniel brings three decades of global hospitality experience shaped by an unwavering passion for people and meaningful guest journeys. Born in Sweden, he began his career after serving as a logistics officer in the Swedish Army — an experience that sparked his love for leading diverse teams and solving challenges with creativity and care.

His path with Four Seasons Hotels and Resorts took him across continents, from Director of Food and Beverage at Four Seasons Resorts Bali to General Manager of Four Seasons Hotel Tokyo. Each destination taught him the art of cultural sensitivity and the power of authentic service. Seeking new horizons, Daniel joined Celebrity Cruises as Hotel Director, sailing the waters of Asia, Alaska, the Caribbean, and Europe, creating extraordinary moments at sea for thousands of guests.

Back on land, he guided W Koh Samui and later Anantara Siam Bangkok Hotel, where his love for food and culture deepened — delighting in Thailand's vibrant street eats and refined Michelin-starred dining. A graduate of the Conrad N. Hilton College of Hotel and Restaurant Management at the University of Houston, Daniel leads Rosewood Phnom Penh with warmth and vision, inspiring his team to craft experiences that feel deeply personal and uniquely of place.
