

THE COASTAL CLIFFS HIDEAWAY

NORTHLAND

ROSEWOOD

KAURI CLIFFS

The coastal cliffs hideaway is a retreat of refined seclusion and unparalleled connection to the North coast of New Zealand.

This is a setting defined by elemental beauty. Here, nestled among rugged coast and native forest, lies a place of tranquility and Maōri heritage.

Fish by line from the rocks and wander beaches adorned with delicate pink shells, framed by crimson pōhutukawa blooms. Connect with Maōri culture through insightful experiences - lessons from an iwi artist-in-residence, geography shaped by ancient Maōri settlements. Even the key gifted on arrival is carved from pounamu, a sacred stone in Maori culture, each shape carrying ancestral meaning.

Unlock nature's restorative power through ritual and time spent intentionally. Morning oceanside meditation or forest bathing under native tōtara and kānuka. The ancient Kauri tree stands as a sentinel of time, inviting stillness, reflection and reverence. Through immersion in place and story, the self is restored not through escape, but through return.

Welcome to the calm embrace of New Zealand's Northland.
